NAVY EXPECTED TO EXTEND ITS SEARCH INTO HAUNTS OF SMUGGLERS

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 3.—The coast guard today prepared to launch a new offensive against rum runners as a result of a United States circuit court of appeals' decision that American ships are under the jurisdiction of United States laws anywhere in the world. With this new powerful ruling and broader right to enter British waters as provided in the United States-Great Britain agreement perfected by Assistant Secretary of Treasury Andrews with the British government, the navy is expected to extend its search into the very haunts of the smugglers.

Government patrol boats have been scouring the Atlantic and Pacific waters for bootleg convoys as far out as 100 miles, but unless the liquor ships came within 12 miles of shore they were not molested. Now with the court ruling and the British agreement, all boats carrying the American flag and found operating illegally will be seized.

Attorney General Sargent today issued a statement confirming the court ruling. He pointed out that "the laws of the land follow the flag."

The coast guard also will resume its policy of seizing rum boats flying foreign flags caught within the 12 mile limit.

STOCKHOLDERS MAY HAVE TO MATCH
ORIGINAL $600,000

Minneapolis, Aug. 3.—(UP)—District Judge E. A. Montgomery late Monday dismissed a petition by John P. Good, receiver, to allow a 100 percent liability assessment against the stockholders in the Interstate Securities Co. A 40-day stay was granted to allow the plaintiff an appeal.

The Interstate Securities Co. was organized in Minnesota in 1913 and subsequently reorganized under South Dakota laws in 1913 and since that time has been doing business only in Minnesota. Stock was sold in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana.

If appeal is taken from the district court order, and should it be reversed it will mean that stockholders in the defunct concern will be required to match the original $600,000 put into the corporation to satisfy creditors' claims.

In the company's articles of incorporation the double stockholders' liability was agreed to.

The case is one of several growing out of more than a score of mysterious deaths in the Osage country.

With the jury excluded, Judge Cotteral had heard for days arguments over the allegations of the defense, asserting that third degree methods had been employed in obtaining Ramsey's confession, made months before the case was taken to the federal court.

"HOTTEST TIP"
IN YEARS HELD
BY REPORTER

DID NOT REALIZE VALUE OF THE NEWS HE GAINED FROM MORGAN PARTNER

WHEN EVENTUALLY RELEASED, IT JUMPED GENERAL MOTORS VALUATION $70,000,000

New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The "hottest tip" the New York stock exchange has had in years came by way of a ship news reporter, who did not realize that he had a story, which in one day would add almost $70,000,000 to the stock market valuation of General Motors Corporation shares.

Near midnight on Saturday Morton Nichols, reporter for Dow Jones & Co., publishers of the Wall Street Journal, sat on the fore deck of the Olympic in conversation with Thomas Cochran, "one of the Morgan partners."

According to Nichols, Cochran said he considered the stock of General Motors cheap at prevailing prices and that it "should and will sell at least 100 points higher."

Nichols knew he had an exclusive story, but he did not fully appreciate its tremendous value. He went to his home in New Jersey early Sunday morning, rested throughout the day and decided to telephone the interview to his office Monday morning. But an appointment intervened. The stock market opened and brokers entered the sweltering exchange in ignorance of the verbal bombshell about to explode. Morton Nichols, the man upon whom millions were hanging, was at that moment up town helping his brother obtain a position.

That duty completed Nichols called his office. The "city desk" leaped to the story. The interview was put on the Dow Jones news tickers. Immediately Wall Street was in a furor and General Motors began to climb. The final quotation of the day was $291.50 a share, a net gain of $12 for the day on a total turn over of 275,300 shares.

General Motors Active
New York, Aug. 3.—General Motors, which yesterday went about 200, continued its upward swing in early dealings today on the stock exchange rising to 211 1/4, up 10% from the previous close, after its opening with a block of 5,000 shares at 205.

SENATE PROBES
IN FINAL CHAPTER OF ILLINOIS CASE

SAMUEL INSULL, PUBLIC UTILITIES MAGNATE, ORDERED TO REAPPEAR

TO MAKE KNOWN DECISION WHETHER HE WILL TELL ALL HE KNOWS OF PRIMARIES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The senate investigating committee today opened the final stage of its inquiry into the Illinois primary.

Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate, was ordered to reappear to make known his delayed decision on whether he will tell the whole story of his participation in the primary known to have entailed contributions of nearly $200,000 to factions prominent in both parties.

Insull's testimony is the key to the whole primary story. He was excused at his previous appearance on the stand so he might consult his attorneys as to legal authority of the committee to go into his financial activities in behalf of the county tickets. The committee has taken the view that the finances of the county tickets are pertinent because they were closely aligned with senatorial expenditures and in some cases no distinction was made by organizations spending for either purpose.

Rufus O. Shepherd, United States deputy marshal of East St. Louis, who was called as first witness, said he appeared over advice of his physician. Shepherd said he was asked to work in the campaign by E. Lee Fisher, employed by a Studebaker traction concern. Fisher furnished the money there for Senator McKinley's campaign, said the witness.

"Was Mr. Fisher connected with the McKinley committee down there?" asked Reed.

"No, sir, not that I knew of."

Federal Building, Chicago, Aug. 3.—A public utilities agent, E. Lee Fisher of the Illinois Traction Company, "handled the money" for the campaign of Senator William B. McKinley in southern Illinois, Rufus O. Shepherd told the senate primary investigating committee. Shepherd said Fisher's corporation was a "Studebaker interest," and that he furnished $2,500 for 61 precincts in East St. Louis.

"We paid poll workers from $5 to $15," the first witness, at resumption of the investigation, declared.

"I don't know how many workers we had."

Fisher did not say where he obtained the money, Shepherd said.

"I understand he furnished money for other parts of the city, but I don't know how much," said the witness.

Chairman Reed showed great interest in the development because of previous testimony that public utility magnates, including Samuel Insull, had furnished most of the money for the republican senatorial campaign of Frank L. Smith, chairman of the public utilities committee, and for George Brennan, democratic senatorial candidate.

McKinley himself is a large owner of public utilities down state.

Federal Court, Chicago, Aug. 3.—A tale of $200 spent in an East St. Louis community for 680 out of 686 votes and an intimate story of the workings of Chicago politics were told to the senate primary investigating committee today at resumption of its inquiry into the Illinois primary.

Rufus O. Shepherd, East St. Louis, told of giving $200 to the colored mayor of Brookland, with such good results that 680 out of the total of 686 votes in the community were cast for Senator McKinley, republican candidate for renomination.

William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, told of handling $25,000 for Frank L. Smith, successful candidate against McKinley for the senatorial nomination. How politicians, candidates address so-called "bunco" parties of women; how campaign managers hired as many workers in a precinct as their pocket-books would permit in reason, and how the Crowe-Barrett faction had offered to support him for mayor of Chicago if he would support Smith.

Thompson said, however, he supported Smith because Smith repre-

STRANGE STORY

MARRIED MAN

TOURED SUMMER RESORT TOWNS WITH WIFE OF ANOTHER MAN

HAD MOTHER ALONG TO LEND RESPECTABILITY TO AFFAIR

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The strange story of the tour of a married man through summer resort towns with the wife of another man, with his mother a member of the party to lend respectability to the alleged "love tour," was revealed here in a bill for separate maintenance filed in circuit court.

Mrs. Nelson H. Oliver, who filed the suit, alleges that her husband and Mrs. Bess Henrichs, wife of a wealthy insurance man, went together to the Pantland Hotel, Grand Rapids, Mich., to the Lodge Hotel, North Point, and to the Stearns Hotel, Ludington, Mich.

At all of these places she says Mrs. Flora Crawford, Bremerton, Wash., Oliver's mother, was with the couple. At each place they registered as "N. H. Oliver and family," and occupied adjoining connecting rooms, the wife alleges.

On an excursion boat, returning from Michigan, Mrs. Henrichs and Oliver were discovered together in scant attire in a state room, during a raid instigated by detectives hired by Mrs. Oliver, she charges.

Mrs. Oliver, who asks $10,500 yearly alimony, declared in her bill that she hired detectives to follow the trip after becoming suspicious of a telephone conversation between her husband and Mrs. Henrichs.

VOTERS OF FOUR
WESTERN STATES
AT THE POLLS

MISSOURI, KANSAS, OKLAHOMA AND MONTANA ENGROSSED TODAY

WET AND DRY QUESTION TO BE THRESHED OUT IN MISSOURI AND MONTANA

Kansas City, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Voters of four western states, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Montana, are selecting today national and state candidates for the government elections with issues centering about the wet and dry question in Missouri and Montana, past administrations in Kansas and personalities in Oklahoma.

Missouri is choosing candidates for the United States senate short and long term with major party strife looming on prohibition. Four of the six candidates are avowed dries, one defines himself as an ardent wet and the others regard prohibition as not an applicable question.

Congressional nominees are to be selected as well as those for state offices.

Kansas is refraining generally from issues of national importance, decides on gubernatorial, senatorial and congressional positions on the merits of past records and with only signs of Klan influence which only two years ago split the republican ranks.

Oklahoma also was devoid of pronounced issues, selects national, state and county candidates from a field cluttered with nominations.

Majority interest swings to the race for governorship to succeed the incumbent, Martin E. Trapp, declared ineligible by the state supreme court. Of second Oklahoma interest is the senatorial contest in which K. C. Walton, impeached governor, one woman and four other democratic candidates compose the major opposition to Senator J. W. Harrell, republican.

Montana in an odd political year, nominates candidates for two congressional seats and polls sentiment on a Volstead issue. Wets and mild wets have the majority in the number of candidates.

A heavy vote was expected in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

SERIOUS FOREST
FIRES RAGING
IN MANITOBA

GREAT AREAS OF TIMBER LAND ABLAZE IN NORTH END

EXTEND IN NORTHERLY DIRECTION FROM HUDSON BAY JUNCTION

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Serious forest fires are now raging in northern Manitoba. From Hudson Bay Junction in a northerly direction, to the shores of Hudson Bay, a distance of 500 miles in length and some 200 miles in width, great areas of timbered lands are ablaze.

With a strong south wind fanning the fire for the past few days to the south of The Pas, the northern city is almost threatened. Scores of firefighters are daily at work digging ditches and burning fire guards. The plant and yards of the Ruby Lake Lumber Company, 80 miles south of The Pas is in great danger. The management has the mill machinery ready to immediately throw into Lake Ruber nearby, should the fire prove uncontrollable.

Near Kettle Rapids on the Hudson Bay railroad, some three wooden trestles have been burned together with over 18 miles of railroad telegraph lines.

Other sections of the Hudson Bay railroad are also threatened. The T. A. Burrows timber limits at Moose Lake were ablaze last week, but are now reported by the Royal Corps force aeroplanes to have been checked by the fire-fighters from Moose Lake.

TRIED TO HOLD
SERVICE IN CHURCH
IN OLD MEXICO

WAS IN DISOBEDIENCE TO PASTORAL LETTER CALLING FOR ABANDONMENT OF SAME

UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT AN AMERICAN PROTESTANT PREACHER ATTACKED

By A. W. FOLGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Mexico City, Aug. 3.—Maurice Jacobo Calvo, arch priest attached to the Basilica of Guadalupe, has been suspended from his position by Archbishop Mora Y Del Rio for an attempt to provoke a schism among Catholics at Villa Guadalupe, making an effort to renew religious services in disobedience to the collective pastoral letter calling for the abandonment of churches.

Angel Vivanco, a prominent Catholic at Villa Guadalupe, began the attempt, it is said, influencing Calvo, and three canons, who also were suspended, to join him.

Catholic townspeople opposed the move. The suspension was urged by Estaban Soto Ruizan, president of the court of honor of the Knights of St. Mary of Guadalupe.

An unconfirmed report that an American Protestant minister had been attacked in the town of Irapuato, state of Guanajuato, circulated in the city today. One version of the story said the minister had been hanged and his church burned.

It was learned today that the sacred image of the virgin of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, had disappeared from the Basilica of Guadalupe, a spurious image replacing the original. Plans to remove the sacred image were made at the recent Eucharist Congress at Chicago and a box to receive it was brought from Chicago but was found to be too small for its purpose. Another box was obtained and the image taken away.

The disappearance of the image constitutes a potential cause of trouble since it is most revered among the ignorant Indians and should they learn of the image's absence there might be some difficulty in controlling the situation.

It was estimated today that 90 percent of the churches of Mexico were in the hands of municipal authorities. The local health department announced that churches in the federal district and the cathedral would be cleaned and fumigated this week.

Under the doorways of foreign and native Protestants, of Masons and of some Catholics, have mysteriously appeared slips of paper bearing the following sentence:

"He, who denies Me, is a renegade, because in the baptismal font he swore to follow Jesus Christ."

Native servants seemed to be strangely affected when they heard about the slips.

Thirty-nine priests, who refused to register in accordance with the new laws, and three laymen composing the first committee of the Catholic League for the Defense of Religious Liberty, were to have legal hearings this week.

The struggle between church and state today seemed to have come to the digging in stage, each party having settled down to verbal campaigns to undermine the prestige of the others. The government's easy victory in the first phases of the conflict and President Calles' obvious determination not to give ground in the future, made it appear likely today the church would begin a long patient campaign of obstruction, simultaneously looking forward to the day when a new government in Mexico might return the church to its former status.

Success for such a campaign as the church seemed to be embarking upon depends on two factors:

1. Absolute unity of the Catholic party.
2. Discovery of a leader capable of aligning the various powerful political elements in Mexico to control the next federal election.

No such leader is in sight.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The strange story of the tour of a married man through summer resort towns with the wife of another man, with his mother a member of the party to lend respectability to the alleged "love tour," was revealed here in a bill for separate maintenance filed in circuit court.

Mrs. Nelson H. Oliver, who filed the suit, alleges that her husband and Mrs. Bess Henrichs, wife of a wealthy insurance man, went together to the Pantland Hotel, Grand Rapids, Mich., to the Lodge Hotel, North Point, and to the Stearns Hotel, Ludington, Mich.

At all of these places she says Mrs. Flora Crawford, Bremerton, Wash., Oliver's mother, was with the couple. At each place they registered as "N. H. Oliver and family," and occupied adjoining connecting rooms, the wife alleges.

On an excursion boat, returning from Michigan, Mrs. Henrichs and Oliver were discovered together in scant attire in a state room, during a raid instigated by detectives hired by Mrs. Oliver, she charges.

Mrs. Oliver, who asks $10,500 yearly alimony, declared in her bill that she hired detectives to follow the trip after becoming suspicious of a telephone conversation between her husband and Mrs. Henrichs.

VIOLENT QUAKE SHAKES TOKIO, SCARING PEOPLE

Tokio, Aug. 3.—(UP)—A violent earthquake shook Tokio at 6:20 p. m. today, sending the residents of the city scurrying to the safety of the open spaces. The quake was the most violent felt here since January, 1924.

Street car and telephone service were interrupted and a suburban electric laboratory exploded. Flames were soon smothered. The seismic movement seemed to center in Tokio bay. It was believed other cities had felt the quake but had not been damaged. No injuries had been reported a few minutes after the quake was felt.

VOTERS OF FOUR WESTERN STATES AT THE POLLS

MISSOURI, KANSAS, OKLAHOMA AND MONTANA ENGROSSED TODAY

WET AND DRY QUESTION TO BE THRESHED OUT IN MISSOURI AND MONTANA

Kansas City, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Voters of four western states, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Montana, are selecting today national and state candidates for the government elections with issues centering about the wet and dry question in Missouri and Montana, past administrations in Kansas and personalities in Oklahoma.

Missouri is choosing candidates for the United States senate short and long term with major party strife looming on prohibition. Four of the six candidates are avowed dries, one defines himself as an ardent wet and the others regard prohibition as not an applicable question.

Congressional nominees are to be selected as well as those for state offices.

Kansas is refraining generally from issues of national importance, decides on gubernatorial, senatorial and congressional positions on the merits of past records and with only signs of Klan influence which only two years ago split the republican ranks.

Oklahoma also was devoid of pronounced issues, selects national, state and county candidates from a field cluttered with nominations.

Majority interest swings to the race for governorship to succeed the incumbent, Martin E. Trapp, declared ineligible by the state supreme court. Of second Oklahoma interest is the senatorial contest in which K. C. Walton, impeached governor, one woman and four other democratic candidates compose the major opposition to Senator J. W. Harrell, republican.

Montana in an odd political year, nominates candidates for two congressional seats and polls sentiment on a Volstead issue. Wets and mild wets have the majority in the number of candidates.

A heavy vote was expected in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

SERIOUS FOREST FIRES RAGING IN MANITOBA

GREAT AREAS OF TIMBER LAND ABLAZE IN NORTH END

EXTEND IN NORTHERLY DIRECTION FROM HUDSON BAY JUNCTION

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Serious forest fires are now raging in northern Manitoba. From Hudson Bay Junction in a northerly direction, to the shores of Hudson Bay, a distance of 500 miles in length and some 200 miles in width, great areas of timbered lands are ablaze.

With a strong south wind fanning the fire for the past few days to the south of The Pas, the northern city is almost threatened. Scores of fire-fighters are daily at work digging ditches and burning fire guards. The plant and yards of the Ruby Lake Lumber Company, 80 miles south of The Pas is in great danger. The management has the mill machinery ready to immediately throw into Lake Rubber nearby, should the fire prove uncontrollable.

Near Kettle Rapids on the Hudson Bay railroad, some three wooden trestles have been burned together with over 18 miles of railroad telegraph lines.

Other sections of the Hudson Bay railroad are also threatened. The T. A. Burrows timber limits at Moose Lake were ablaze last week, but are now reported by the Royal Corps force aeroplanes to have been checked by the fire-fighters from Moose Lake.

Both youths are entered as "buck privates" and will take their regular turn at army routine without being shown any special favors.

TRIED TO HOLD SERVICE IN CHURCH IN OLD MEXICO

WAS IN DISOBEDIENCE TO PASTORAL LETTER CALLING FOR ABANDONMENT OF SAME

UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT AN AMERICAN PROTESTANT PREACHER ATTACKED

By A. W. FOLGER (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Mexico City, Aug. 3.—Maurice Jacobo Calvo, arch priest attached to the Basilica of Guadalupe, has been suspended from his position by Archbishop Mora Y Del Rio for an attempt to provoke a schism among Catholics at Villa Guadalupe, making an effort to renew religious services in disobedience to the collective pastoral letter calling for the abandonment of churches.

Angel Vivanco, a prominent Catholic at Villa Guadalupe, began the attempt, it is said, influencing Calvo, and three canons, who also were suspended, to join him.

Catholic townspeople opposed the move. The suspension was urged by Estaban Soto Ruizan, president of the court of honor of the Knights of St. Mary of Guadalupe.

An unconfirmed report that an American Protestant minister had been attacked in the town of Irapuato, state of Guanajuato, circulated in the city today. One version of the story said the minister had been hanged and his church burned.

It was learned today that the sacred image of the virgin of Guadalupe, patron saint of Mexico, had disappeared from the Basilica of Guadalupe, a spurious image replacing the original. Plans to remove the sacred image were made at the recent Eucharist Congress at Chicago and a box to receive it was brought from Chicago but was found to be too small for its purpose. Another box was obtained and the image taken away.

The disappearance of the image constitutes a potential cause of trouble since it is most revered among the ignorant Indians and should they learn of the image's absence there might be some difficulty in controlling the situation.

It was estimated today that 90 percent of the churches of Mexico were in the hands of municipal authorities. The local health department announced that churches in the federal district and the cathedral would be cleaned and fumigated this week.

Under the doorways of foreign and native Protestants, of Masons and of some Catholics, have mysteriously appeared slips of paper bearing the following sentence:

"He, who denies Me, is a renegade, because in the baptismal font he swore to follow Jesus Christ."

Native servants seemed to be strangely affected when they heard about the slips.

Thirty-nine priests, who refused to register in accordance with the new laws, and three laymen composing the first committee of the Catholic League for the Defense of Religious Liberty, were to have legal hearings this week.

The struggle between church and state today seemed to have come to the digging in stage, each party having settled down to verbal campaigns to undermine the prestige of the others. The government's easy victory in the first phases of the conflict and President Calles' obvious determination not to give ground in the future, made it appear likely today the church would bring a long patient campaign of obstruction, simultaneously looking forward to the day when a new government in Mexico might return the church to its former status.

Success for such a campaign as the church seemed to be embarking upon depends on two factors:

1. Absolute unity of the Catholic party.
2. Discovery of a leader capable of aligning the various powerful political elements in Mexico to control the next federal election.

No such leader is in sight.

HORACE LYDICK OF BEMIDJI ENDS HIS HUNGER STRIKE

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Horace Lydick of Brooklake township today ended his hunger strike in Beltrami county jail by eating a small bowl of berries and cream.

This is the first food Lydick has partaken of in two weeks since being imprisoned on July 20 on a charge of possessing an illegal fish net. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail and a fine of $75.

Lydick did not furnish bond for an appeal and went on the hunger strike in protest against being held in jail. His wife visited him for the first time late Monday and it is believed she persuaded the hunger striker to break the prolonged fast.

During the two weeks abstinence Lydick lost much weight and his eyes and cheeks appear sunken.

Artificial Pearls
The method used by the Buddhist priest in producing pearl images was to insert a small wooden wedge between the two shells of the mussel, when these were open, to keep them from closing. All mussels can only open their shell a little way, just enough to extend the foot by means of which they slowly plow through the mud of the river bottom, and two tubes, one bringing in water loaded with microscopic animals and plants upon which the mussel feeds, and oxygen for breathing, the other carrying away the waste water and refuse. The wedge once quickly and carefully slipped in makes it possible to work in the interior.—Nature Magazine.

What Interested Him
One of our customers is a merchant who thinks, eats, and sleeps in terms of business. His business interests him more than anything else in the world. One night, according to the story, his wife discovered him standing over his baby's crib. She saw in his face rapture, doubt, admiration, despair, ecstasy, incredulity.

Naturally, she was touched at this somewhat unusual parental attitude, so with glistening eyes she arose and slipped her arms around him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said in a voice tremulous with tenderness.

Startled into consciousness, he blurted out: "For the life of me, I can't see how anybody can make a crib like that for $3.49."—Old Colony News-Letter.

Evil in Slothfulness
Sloth is the torpidity of the mental faculties; the sluggard is a living insensible.—Zimmerman.

Coloma, City of Gold,
Pathetic in Its Ruin

Coloma is an unknown name today, but three-quarters of a century ago every American able to speak had it at his tongue's end. There that New Jersey adventurer, James Wilson Marshall, discovered gold in January, 1848, and started the rush of fortune seekers from all the world to California, a writer in the New York Sun recalls. Coloma grew quickly to a town of ten thousand inhabitants and boasted of all the luxuries that a pioneer could demand. A stranger wandering among the hills of El Dorado county recently rediscovered it. He found a country store and a post office in the midst of a cluster of deserted shops and houses. The mail carrier said that in the whole community there were scarcely a hundred and fifty persons. In the graveyard on the hillside was the only reminder of Coloma's fame, a memorial to Marshall, the bronze statue surmounting it pointing to the place of California's first gold discovery.

Coloma had dreams of magnificence in the early fifties. Coloma then had a dozen hotels, a street lined with stores, a hundred saloons, as many wide-open gambling places and dance halls, an express office, three schools, four churches and a jail. The shells of the dance halls, the saloons and the gambling places remain. The churches and schools passed generations ago. The jail that had housed the bad men, the killers and crooked gamblers long ago fell into ruins.

First Settlement in Oregon Was Astoria

The first permanent settlement in Oregon was founded at Astoria by agents of the Pacific Fur company, who arrived at the mouth of the Columbia river 115 years ago. The fur company was backed by John Jacob Astor, but the men engaged by him to invade the northwestern wilderness were Canadians, a majority being of Scotch descent.

The party left Montreal in a big canoe and made their way down the St. Lawrence, thence to the Hudson and New York, from which port they sailed on the ship Tonquin, which doubled Cape Horn and proceeded to Hawaii, sailing thence for the Columbia river. Arrived at the mouth of that mighty stream, they built a fort, calling it Astoria, which gradually developed into the town and city of that name.

Tea-Totalers
The English poor owe their indignation to their mania for tea drinking. An hour before he gets up every Englishman drinks on an empty stomach a huge cupful of tea as strong as it can be brewed. This furnishes the foundation for the tea jag that he will build up in the course of the day.

A peasant woman in an English village once asked an American visitor to have a cupful of tea. But the tea was as black as ink, and the American declined.

"How long have you had that tea-pot simmering on the stove?" she asked.

"Why, miss, I never take it off," the peasant woman replied. "I put in a fresh pennyworth when it gets weak and then, when the pot gets full of leaves, I put in my hand and pull out a handful for my old man to smoke."

ENGINE IN AIRSHIP STANDS HARD TEST

By accomplishing the feat of flying, in the United Kingdom, a distance equal to a journey round the globe, two English aviators, Captain Barnard and Colonel Minchin, have made a remarkable contribution to the history of aviation.

The feat was primarily arranged as a test of engine efficiency, the aviators being required to accomplish the journey without replacing any part of their engine. When the machine was ready, air ministry officials placed special seals on 31 different parts of the engine, so that replacement could not be made without detection.

The route covered was between Crofton and Bristol, the requisite distance of 25,000 miles, representing numerous continuous flights between the two places, being completed in 225 flying hours.

The engine is now being taken to pieces, and every part is being closely examined so that experts can see how it has stood the tremendous strain of the flight.

HORACE LYDICK OF BEMIDJI ENDS HIS HUNGER STRIKE

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Horace Lydick of Brooklake township today ended his hunger strike in Beltrami county jail by eating a small bowl of berries and cream.

This is the first food Lydick has partaken of in two weeks since being imprisoned on July 20 on a charge of possessing an illegal fish net. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail and a fine of $75.

Lydick did not furnish bond for an appeal and went on the hunger strike in protest against being held in jail.

His wife visited him for the first time late Monday and it is believed she persuaded the hunger striker to break the prolonged fast.

During the two weeks abstinence Lydick lost much weight and his eyes and cheeks appear sunken.

Artificial Pearls

The method used by the Buddhist priest in producing pearl images was to insert a small wooden wedge between the two shells of the mussel, when these were open, to keep them from closing. All mussels can only open their shell a little way, just enough to extend the foot by means of which they slowly plow through the mud of the river bottom, and two tubes, one bringing in water loaded with microscopic animals and plants upon which the mussel feeds, and oxygen for breathing, the other carrying away the waste water and refuse. The wedge once quickly and carefully slipped in makes it possible to work in the interior.—Nature Magazine.

Coloma, City of Gold,
Pathetic in Its Ruin

Coloma is an unknown name today, but three-quarters of a century ago every American able to speak had it at his tongue's end. There that New Jersey adventurer, James Wilson Marshall, discovered gold in January, 1848, and started the rush of fortune seekers from all the world to California, a writer in the New York Sun recalls. Coloma grew quickly to a town of ten thousand inhabitants and boasted of all the luxuries that a pioneer could demand. A stranger wandering among the hills of El Dorado county recently rediscovered it. He found a country store and a post office in the midst of a cluster of deserted shops and houses. The mail carrier said that in the whole community there were scarcely a hundred and fifty persons. In the graveyard on the hillside was the only reminder of Coloma's fame, a memorial to Marshall, the bronze statue surmounting it pointing to the place of California's first gold discovery.

Coloma had dreams of magnificence in the early fifties. Coloma then had a dozen hotels, a street lined with stores, a hundred saloons, as many wide-open gambling places and dance halls, an express office, three schools, four churches and a jail. The shells of the dance halls, the saloons and the gambling places remain. The churches and schools passed generations ago. The jail that had housed the bad men, the killers and crooked gamblers long ago fell into ruins.

First Settlement in Oregon Was Astoria

The first permanent settlement in Oregon was founded at Astoria by agents of the Pacific Fur company, who arrived at the mouth of the Columbia river 115 years ago. The fur company was backed by John Jacob Astor, but the men engaged by him to invade the northwestern wilderness were Canadians, a majority being of Scotch descent.

The party left Montreal in a big canoe and made their way down the St. Lawrence, thence to the Hudson and New York, from which port they sailed on the ship Tonquin, which doubled Cape Horn and proceeded to Hawaii, sailing thence for the Columbia river. Arrived at the mouth of that mighty stream, they built a fort, calling it Astoria, which gradually developed into the town and city of that name.

Tea-Totalers

The English poor owe their indignation to their mania for tea drinking. An hour before he gets up every Englishman drinks on an empty stomach a huge cupful of tea as strong as it can be brewed. This furnishes the foundation for the tea jag that he will build up in the course of the day.

A peasant woman in an English village once asked an American visitor to have a cupful of tea. But the tea was as black as ink, and the American declined.

"How long have you had that tea-pot simmering on the stove?" she asked.

"Why, miss, I never take it off," the peasant woman replied. "I put in a fresh pennyworth when it gets weak and then, when the pot gets full of leaves, I put in my hand and pull out a handful for my old man to smoke."

What Interested Him

One of our customers is a merchant who thinks, eats, and sleeps in terms of business. His business interests him more than anything else in the world. One night, according to the story, his wife discovered him standing over his baby's crib. She saw in his face rapture, doubt, admiration, despair, ecstasy, incredulity.

Naturally, she was touched at this somewhat unusual parental attitude, so with glistening eyes she arose and slipped her arms around him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said in a voice tremulous with tenderness.

Startled into consciousness, he blurted out: "For the life of me, I can't see how anybody can make a crib like that for $3.49."—Old Colony News-Letter.

ENGINE IN AIRSHIP
STANDS HARD TEST

By accomplishing the feat of flying, in the United Kingdom, a distance equal to a journey round the globe, two English aviators, Captain Barnard and Colonel Minchin, have made a remarkable contribution to the history of aviation.

The feat was primarily arranged as a test of engine efficiency, the aviators being required to accomplish the journey without replacing any part of their engine. When the machine was ready, air ministry officials placed special seals on 31 different parts of the engine, so that replacement could not be made without detection.

The route covered was between Croydon and Bristol, the requisite distance of 25,000 miles, representing numerous continuous flights between the two places, being completed in 225 flying hours.

The engine is now being taken to pieces, and every part is being closely examined so that experts can see how it has stood the tremendous strain of the flight.

SIX NEW PEAT FIRES REPORTED

New Outbreak Reported by District Ranger in the Villard Township

TOTAL NUMBER FIRES, 40

No Immediate Danger Felt Except in Event of Fires Spreading to Adjoining Timber Lands

With a new outbreak of six peat fires in the region of Villard township, south of Staples, a new fire situation faces the forestry department here, of which E. H. Rhodes is at the head.

Mr. Rhodes in company with E. L. Kolbe, of the State Forestry Department of St. Paul left yesterday for Hillman to look over the fire situation there.

At the present time there are a total of 40 peat fires burning in the area patrolled by firefighters with headquarters here.

No serious damage is looked for except in the advent of the peat fires breaking into adjoining timber lands. There are about 25 men fighting the fires in the vicinity here at the present time.

The peat fire situation this year is said to be worse than it has been for a long time.

With the weather conditions becoming dry again, a number of peat fires are being reported every day. However there are probably a great many peat fires burning in meadows and ditch banks which have not been reported to the Brainerd office.

Ranger E. H. Rhodes wishes to call the attention of the public to section 22 of chapter 407, of the Laws of Minnesota, 1925, a part of which reads as follows:

"The occupant of any premises upon which any unauthorized fire is burning in the vicinity of forest lands, whether said fire was started by said occupant or otherwise, shall promptly report the said fire to the forester or to the nearest district ranger, patrolman, or fire warden."

This section makes the owner or occupant of the land on which a fire is burning liable to prosecution if the fire is not reported. A little cooperation along this line will probably save the community from disastrous fires this fall, Mr. Rhodes said.

Little Visits

Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Due to a large number of farmers being away from home Saturday our "Little Visits" were so few that we decided to include them with Monday's visits. Mrs. E. Soderman has lived on the place known as Lakeview farm for the past 35 years; her three boys, Rudolph, Fredolph, and George are running the home place which consists of 160 acres also the Thelander place, besides milking seven cows of mixed breed.

H. M. Anderson lives on the shores of South Long Lake and they have made their home here during the summer months for the last five years.

John Erickson batches in the winter and his daughter, Mrs. P. L. Anderson keeps house for him during the summer. He has lived in the community for 35 years and has seen some radical changes take place during that time. He says the old dairy cow has been the main stand-by.

Ole Olson came from Norway in 1880 and landed in Cherokee, Ia., and he said he never put in such a winter as he did that first winter after he came over. He came to Crow Wing county 23 years ago and has made dairying his major enterprise. At present he is milking eight cows besides doing his farm work. Mrs. Olson has 150 chicks that will bring in a good income next winter. Amanda and Agnes Olson are making plans to attend the outing for the D. O. T. S. which will be held at Clearwater Lake.

P. J. Albertson formerly worked in the shops but became tired of the daily routine and moved out in the country 32 years ago where he has led a more enjoyable life. He said the first two years on the place he raised 96 bushels of wheat per acre which is more than we raise off of four acres nowadays. This goes to show what virgin soil can do before its riches are withdrawn. Mrs. Albertson aims to keep from 65 to 75 hens over winter which brought her in $207.95 last year. Mr. and Mrs. Albertson both keep complete records of products sold and everything that is bought; this is something ever farmer should do as we have stated before in the "Little Visits."

We failed to find any one at home at Daniel Peterson's, but from the appearance of the farmstead we take it for granted that he has been a successful farmer.

Several farmers were some distance from the house cutting grain, consequently we will have to call again to see them. So those whose names do not appear can look for them in the near future.

SIX NEW PEAT FIRES REPORTED

New Outbreak Reported by District Ranger in the Villard Township

TOTAL NUMBER FIRES, 40

No Immediate Danger Felt Except in Event of Fires Spreading to Adjoining Timber Lands

With a new outbreak of six peat fires in the region of Villard township, south of Staples, a new fire situation faces the forestry department here, of which E. H. Rhodes is at the head.

Mr. Rhodes in company with E. L. Kolbe, of the State Forestry Department of St. Paul left yesterday for Hillman to look over the fire situation there.

At the present time there are a total of 40 peat fires burning in the area patrolled by firefighters with headquarters here.

No serious damage is looked for except in the advent of the peat fires breaking into adjoining timber lands. There are about 25 men fighting the fires in the vicinity here at the present time.

The peat fire situation this year is said to be worse than it has been for a long time.

With the weather conditions becoming dry again, a number of peat fires are being reported every day. However there are probably a great many peat fires burning in meadows and ditch banks which have not been reported to the Brainerd office.

Ranger E. H. Rhodes wishes to call the attention of the public to section 22 of chapter 407, of the Laws of Minnesota, 1925, a part of which reads as follows:

"The occupant of any premises upon which any unauthorized fire is burning in the vicinity of forest lands, whether said fire was started by said occupant or otherwise, shall promptly report the said fire to the forester or to the nearest district ranger, patrolman, or fire warden."

This section makes the owner or occupant of the land on which a fire is burning liable to prosecution if the fire is not reported. A little cooperation along this line will probably save the community from disastrous fires this fall, Mr. Rhodes said.

"MARCELLING THE CRIME WAVE"

CAPTAIN BILLY FAWCETT'S publication, Whiz Bang, carries the Captain's philosophical utterances and many of them ring right and carry a world of truth. In the September issue, his lead editorial emphasizes the fact that we are doing little in straightening out the kinks of our crime waves. About all we do is to "marcel the crime wave."

"It's getting tougher and tougher to tell whether Cal Coolidge or Tex Rickard is president of our country," says Captain Billy. "Tex opens his mouth and brays and the old barkeeper gets a column of newspaper space. Cal whisperingly denies that spooky folks were chatting with the spirits and tipping tables in the White House and gets about three inches of notice."

"There are some people who think Wayne B. Wheeler is vice president or secretary of state or something equally smart. Things are getting so mixed up these days, that this old poultry patriot often feels like quitting the papers and resting his head."

"Richard Reese Whitmore, Gerald Chapman, Dutch Anderson, and a few others who pot-shotted at least one simple-hearted citizen every twenty-four hours have filled the papers with more photographs of themselves than all the bishops of the Methodist church combined."

"Crime is the thing. In all sections of the nation the popping of pistols and the dull thud of bludgeons on honest heads are shattering the solemn silence of night and day."

These scallywags are getting so bad we're afraid to put them in jail. When we do they kill all the guards that show their heads. It is a poor day that we don't read of at least one jail delivery, averaging two or three murders. Penitentiary guards have about as dangerous jobs now-a-days as bank clerks. They can't even get a few months protection like wild ducks. Let's give them a chance. Yours till they vulcanize balloon trousers, W. H. Fawcett."

OUR COUNTY FAIR

OUR county fair will be at Pequot on August 30, 31 and September 1. W. H. Triplett, our rural editor, is preaching county fair and exhibits wherever he sees material which would make a likely display. To tell the truth, farmers have ample material for fine displays.

Pessimism has no place in the category of a Crow Wing county farmer. It has been shown that diversified farming flourishes, that dairying is assured of success, that poultry raising is profitable.

The county fair management made a splendid showing last year and promise to do even better this season. They are utilizing everything possible to make the fair successful. One the greatest features is that of music, for the Minneapolis Symphony members summering nearby will again donate numbers.

WHAT IS LOVE?

MANY a maiden asks, "What is love?" Well McCutchen gives a nice definition in his novel, "Crossed Wires," when a sub-hero who was to save the heroine, does the job so well that he also falls in love with her.

McCutchen writes that love "is something you cannot turn on or off like a faucet. It comes, sometimes unbidden and even unwelcome. The mind counsels one course, the heart another. The heart repeats the advantageous marriage which the mind advocates."

"Love," reflected the unhappy Wells (the sub-hero), "is a damned illogical and unreasonable thing. You can't head it off, or steer it up a side street, once it gets going."

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

WHY do people go to a band concert if they do not want to listen to the music? At most outdoor concerts some flivver navigators who auto know better, start up their cars right when in the central section of a number, much to the annoyance of those who enjoy the melody. The shouts of children are all right at times, but not when the band is playing. Let's be a little more considerate of the pleasure of other folks. What would you think of the guy who would start something in church midway of the sermon, or when the choir was singing a glorious hymn? The same answer for the ill bred boob who interrupts a band concert.—St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press.

RECENT Sunday newspapers picture the President's pike. Governor Al Smith of New York is shown with the three pound pike caught and presented to him by President Coolidge. The governor sent the fish to the state taxidermist to be mounted and placed in the New York state museum at Albany. This removes the assertion first made that the President had cooked and eaten his three-pound catch. The picture shows a fish, however, that looks more like one of our small pickerel than a pike.

AN exchange states that an Iowa couple who lived in peace and harmony for about forty years, agreed early in their married life that, whenever one of them started an argument, the other was to walk out of the home and remain until the storm had subsided, and it is said that the man is a perfect picture of health, due to the fact that he has spent so much of his life living out of doors.

ONCE in a while a typist, like a newspaper editor, retires with a fortune. Mrs. Jacob Baur started in business as a typist in Chicago and then engaged in commercial enterprises which netted her a fortune of $4,000,000. Following her phenomenal success in business, she entered politics, being a candidate for congress on a wet platform.

A PRECEDENT was set at North Dakota University at commencement exercises last June when a widowed mother, Mrs. Agnes Rex, and her son Theodore graduated together, both receiving diplomas from the college of Liberal Arts.

WHEN the town of Warren, Ohio, population 40,000, became cramped in finances, they discharged their police chief and 23 officers and then asked the sheriff to carry on the job of patrolling streets and enforcing the law.

"Don Juan," screen play by Bess Meredyth, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

"The greatest lover in the world" men called Don Juan enviously, women admiringly; all wondering why he was so cruel and indifferent to women, had no faith in them and never gave his heart in return for the ones bestowed so recklessly upon him. But Don Juan, as cynical as handsome, had locked in his secret heart a bitter memory of when as a child, he had witnessed his beautiful mother's shameless passage from the arms of her husband, Don Jose, as he left for the wars, into the arms of her lover, Leandro, who entered as Don Jose left. Don Jose had returned and trapped them.

CHAPTER I—Continued

Practically she had run back into the room, and stared about it, seeking some hiding place for Leandro. Two of the huge stones of which the wall was made had become dislodged, and were on the floor. Little Juan watched, bewildered, as she motioned Leandro to hide in the space they had occupied.

The door opened, slowly Beatriz watched it, and even her small son had known her terror, so that now he could realize it as he had then.

She went to him, put her hands on his shoulders, fluttered about him like a snared bird. And he stood looking at her, making no move to return her caresses.

"Why have you come back?" she asked, over and over, and at last he told her.

"I have turned back for certain evidence of an important nature," he said, and his voice dragged as his feet had dragged on the stairs.

He put her from him and went to the bedroom, pushing aside the curtains slowly, because he knew she faced the stern face of her husband.

She had said at last that she knew no reason, and Don Jose ordered the work to go on. Before her eyes her lover had been committed to a hideous death, and she had said no word to prevent it.

Their work finished, the four men had gone, and Don Jose turned contemptuously to his wife.

Years afterward, he told Juan of the faint sound of a man's fists beating frantically on unyielding stone, and of how it had died away, while the woman cowered against the embroidered curtains of the bedroom where she had betrayed her husband's love.

Then, suddenly, she had flown across the room and torn at the wall with her hands, had turned and thrown herself on her knees before Don Jose, crying "Let him out! Let him out!" And he had stood there laughing at her agony, hating her, motionless until she caught at him with her hands. Then he had thrown her aside, loathing her touch.

And as she shrank back from him, then ran to seize him again, he had turned to the door.

"Out—before I kill you!" he had cried, and with the glory of her red-gold hair tumbling over her bare shoulders she had gone stumbling down the stairs, out of the lives of her son and her husband.

Behind her she left a man who could never again love a woman, and a little boy, who, believing all women to be as faithless as she had been, was to grow into Don Juan, "the greatest lover in the world."

Don Jose, feeding his own bitterness through the years by one orgy after another, did not foresee that result. It amused the man to have beautiful women about him, to en-that no one hidden there could escape him. Beatriz waited, frantic with fear, to glance toward her lover's hiding place. Juan could imagine how she had stood clutching the curtains while his father searched the room, and how she had followed him when he came back to the circular room again.

Juan could understand when, later, Don Jose had told of the relief of that moment, when he thought that his search was ended in failure. He had said that he must go, had bent to kiss his wife once more. He had gone to the door, and she had followed him, hating more than ever to leave her, adoring her as she stood there with half the beauty of her body bare, he had bent his head for a last kiss.

It was then that he saw the opening in the wall, which he had ignored. Her eyes had followed him to it, and in her terror he read her secret.

He had walked toward it; the little boy on the hearth had watched him, wondering. Don Jose had stopped before he reached the wall, looked down at Beatriz' hand trembling on his arm, at the pallor of her face.

"This wall has gone too long unopened," he had said. "It means danger for us all."

Striding to the door, he had thrown it wide, revealing the hunchback waiting there. An order was given briefly. Cowering against the wall, Beatriz had watched her husband turning again to face her; she had not moved or spoken when the hunchback returned with four men, who crossed the room and lifted the great stones, one after the other, into place in the wall. Once she had leaned forward, her clenched hands uplifted in protest, and Don Jose had signalled the men to wait a moment, while he asked her if she knew of any reason why the stones should not be sealed in place.

For an instant she had hesitated. Juan could imagine what her thoughts had been, how keenly she must have realized that her lover was cowering in that hidden recess, facing his doom, how her love for the man must have surged up in her heart, and then ebbed as certain them lavishly, and treat them as badly as he would have liked to treat his wife. Night after night he sauntered into the banquet hall of the old castle, his son at his side, and listened sardonically while the loveliest women in all Spain did their best to captivate him.

Juan was a boy of fifteen when the last of these banquets was given. That night took its place in his memory with the one on which Leandro was sealed in the wall of the tower room. The banquet had been spread, the guests were waiting, as Juan and Don Jose entered the hall. Even after Juan remembered little details, as if he had known how significant that evening was to be when he stood between the great curtains of the doorway.

He could recall the color of the scene, the gown of a woman, yellow that one girl wore, the sandy plumage of a cockatoo that perched on the hunchback's hand, a strain of seductive music and the lovely line of a girl's body as she danced to it.

He could remember the face of a girl who had bent to kiss him, and the way he had avoided her, as well as his own contempt of her. His father commented amusingly on the incident. Juan replied "Passing fair, but a trifle thin of shoulder," and had been rather proud of the remark.

He could not recall the blonde woman whose role was of supreme importance, however. Afterward the hunchback told him that she had stood behind Don Jose when he seated himself, that she had laid one hand lightly on the man's shoulder, and that Don Jose had turned to look at her, smiled maliciously as he saw the worship in her eyes, and turned away.

He had laughed, the hunchback said, and called to him the girl who had tried unsuccessfully to kiss Juan. When she came running to him, he had put his arm around her, drawn her close to him, and laughed tauntingly at the woman who stood behind him.

Then, suddenly, steel had gleamed and flashed in the torchlight. The woman had drawn a dagger and driven it into Don Jose's side. (To be continued)

CROPS IN THE RED RIVER VALLEY ARE PROMISING

REPORT BY N. J. HOLMBERG,
STATE COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE

LATTER HAS JUST RETURNED FROM INSPECTION TRIP IN TERRITORY

St. Paul, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Crops in the Red River Valley district of Minnesota are in a promising condition, according to a report by N. J. Holmberg, state commissioner of agriculture, who has just returned from an inspection tour through the district along the Great Northern right of way.

In some fields wheat will run 25 to 35 bushels to the acre, Holmberg said. There is some black rust, but the grain is sufficiently advanced to discount the harmful effects of this disease.

The fields are not as uniform as usual, he said, but rotation of crops in the last several years has brought about a great improvement.

"Farmers are learning how to handle the low thistle situation," he said, "and can expect continued advancement as a result."

Old Hawaiian Custom of Birth Celebration

In years gone by the Hawaiians, a primitive, nature-loving people, made gods of mountains, trees and stones. The "alii" or chiefs associated the birth of a child with a specific tree. A tamarind or a koa tree was planted at the time a chief's child was born, and grew to maturity with the child. On certain occasions the first fruits of a young tree, coconut palm by preference, were plucked by a son of the "alii."

When an heir was born to the "alii" the ceremonial drum was beaten at the temple and a sacred hula performed. One of these ceremonial drums, taken from a temple on Diamond head, in Honolulu, is of ko wood (mahogany) and nearly four feet high. Its ends are covered with sharkskin and the sides decorated with human teeth.

As the great drum booms out its message that a son has been born to the "alii," the people gather to offer sacrifices and propitiate the gods. A feast is given by the chief and the sacred hula-hula is performed. This sacred hula is more a historic pantomime than a mere dance, and is as different from the hula-hula of today as a symphony orchestra is from a jazz band.

Twice Escaped Death Plans Carefully Laid

Sorcerers in Papua, or New Guinea, seldom attempt to employ their "puri-puri," as native magic is termed, against white men, but twice one Mir-Oa did seek to avenge a fancied wrong by bringing about the death of Merlin Moore Taylor, the writer relates in "The Heart of Black Papua."

The first attempt was frustrated when a native discovered that a coconut handed the white man contained minute slivers of bamboo in the nut's milk. If swallowed, these bits of fiber would penetrate the delicate tissues of the vital organs, causing inflammation and eventually death.

Later Taylor narrowly escaped death from a snake which charged toward him while he was walking along a narrow path. The sorcerer had captured the poisonous reptile, tied a noose of plant vine back of its head, and placed it in a pot over a fire with a handkerchief owned by Taylor. Tortured by the heat, the snake associated the scent of the handkerchief with its torture, and when released sought to attack the person whose scent was similar to that of the handkerchief.

The witch doctor then became resigned and disappeared into the jungle until the white man had departed.

May McAvoy and Ben Lyon in 'The Savage'

Motion picture lovers who like good, clean, side-splitting comedy mixed with plenty of thrills and a delightful love story should not miss seeing "The Savage," which opens at the Lyceum tonight for a two day run.

Ben Lyon and May McAvoy have the featured roles, and it is rarely that one sees such a brilliant couple so admirably cast. The part of the savage seems made for Ben, and Miss McAvoy, as always, gives a splendid performance.

This Six-Room Bungalow Adapts Self To Any Lot

MUCH can be said in favor of the one-story dwelling. No space is wasted in stairs and landings; there are fewer steps for the busy housewife to take in doing her daily work. The cost of building is no more than the two-story house, especially if one does not excavate under the entire building. The pleasing effect of the Colonial bungalow shown here has been secured with shingles, stained a soft light gray. Eighteen-inch shingles have been used, laid twelve inches to the weather. The trim is white and the shutters green, as are the window blinds inside.

The roof in the illustration is of shingles, stained a rich moss green. A tile roof could also be used effectively here, but the extra warmth it affords is not needed here as the house is completely insulated with celotex, walls and roof. This assures keeping the temperature at the comfort point the year round. The little half-moon window in front ventilates the attic.

The two points to be most considered in planning a bungalow are conservation of space and privacy for sleeping quarters. Both these matters have been deftly handled in the arrangement of this six-roomhouse, and yet there is no sense of being crowded and unable to move about. All the rooms but one have double exposures and there is not a dark corner in the place.

There is a good sized entry, with a closet right at hand for wraps and umbrellas. Turn right and you are in the living room, turn left and you might well be on the second floor of a two-story house, so remote are the three bedrooms and bath from the rest of the house. Keep going straight ahead and you find yourself in the working quarters—the kitchen.

The living room is quite large—thirteen feet by nineteen—and seems even larger with the vista through to the dining room. There is a cheery open fireplace for the cool days and an inviting open porch opposite for the summer months. This porch can be glassed in at a reasonable additional expense, providing an extra living or sleeping room. It has an alternate location off the dining room if the house is to be placed across a narrow lot. The arrangements in the kitchen call for numerous cupboards and a broom closet, the sink beneath the windows, and the refrigerator under one of the cupboards and close to the back door for convenient icing.

Two linen closets have been tucked in close to the bathroom. One of three bedrooms is large enough to take twin beds. Each has ample closet space. Small windows could easily be added in two of these closets and airiness in closets, as all housewives know, is of great value in hygiene and sanitation.

So far there has been no confirmation of the reports that a Protestant minister in Irapuato was hanged to a tree and his church burned. KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS OPPOSE MEXICAN VIEW

Philadelphia, Aug. 3.—The 800,000 members of the Knights of Columbus in North America will go on record as definitely opposing the attitude of the Mexican government in the present controversy, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty said at the opening session of the supreme council today.

More than 500 delegates applauded Flaherty's statement that "the momentous issue would be dealt with in no unmistakable way." He indicated that the attitude of the United States government in the controversy would be taken up at an executive session tomorrow.

GEN. OBREGON SUPPORTS CALLES

Time on Shipboard

The striking of bells on board ship is a custom of considerable antiquity. Originally the time was kept by half-hour sandglasses and each time the glass was turned the boy in charge struck a bell, and after striking ran along the deck crying out, "One hour passed in two turns and more will pass if God will!"

Uses Music as Aid to Culinary Inspiration

JEAN LANDAUER

You are mine by the sign of the rose, — I can trace your dear face in the rose.

Chef of French Line Steamer Paris Reveals Secrets

New York City.—Jean Landauer, head chef of the steamship Paris, has found a new use for music. He employs it as the inspiration for his most appetizing dishes.

The famous food wizard of the well-known French Line Steamship Company recently won a medal and diploma from the Club des Cents of Paris, an association of epicures. He thinks he never would have gained the honor if it had not been for his addition to musical recipes.

"Music," explains Monsieur Landauer, "is the great inspirator. I never hear a piece of music without seeing in my mind's eye the vision of some kind of food."

"If the music is very bad, my invention will not be so beautiful. It will not, however, give indigestion to the one who eats it. That is because music is bad enough to spoil inspiration entirely.

"You ask me how music goes about to make me think of new dishes. It is because when my mood changes, as it does always with music, my inventive powers take also a new tack.

"When we have on board a famous man of some country, I play his national music on the phonograph before cooking for him. Even when the dish is to be very simple, I do this. If I am only to fry ham and eggs for an American or broil a lamb chop for a Britisher, I like a musical accompaniment."

Monsieur Landauer has invented a beautiful new dessert—a frozen dairy, all stuff, cream and fruit, with rose petals as a garnish—to the playing of his favorite among modern songs, "By The Sign of the Rose."

HELEN WILLS TO MEET REAL OPPONENT TODAY

Seabright, N. J., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Helen Wills meets an opponent here today who is quite capable of making the champion extend herself to win. She is Mrs. A. H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass. The two meet in the second round of the women's singles in the Seabright jubilee celebration.

By virtue of the upset of R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia by Lionel Ogdan, of California, in yesterday's playing in the men's singles, it seems likely that the gallery will not be surprised at further upsets of avowed stars. The defeat reminded the gallery of William M. Johnston's defeat a year ago at the hands of Dr. George King.

Kind He Needed

A man had been told that he could order his collars by post, so he wrote to the hostler's shop, saying, "I have a thick neck, a broad nose, large bushy eyebrows, and a fat body with short legs; what sort of collar do you recommend?" The answer came back: "We recommend a brass one, with a leather strap and buckle, and your name and address engraved on it."

St. Paul Woman Was On The Verge of Despair

But Karnak Overcame Mrs. Munson's 12 Years Of Agony And Has Built Her Up 10 Pounds To Perfect Health.

"I had just about lost all hope of ever seeing another well day when I started taking Karnak, and now that this medicine has restored me to perfect health again I feel like I would be showing a spirit of ingratitude not to tell others about it," declares Mrs. P. C. Munson, highly esteemed resident of 69 W. College Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

"I don't see how anyone could suffer more agony with stomach trouble than I did the past 12 years, and finally I was told an operation was my only hope," continues Mrs. Munson.

"To eat even a bowl of soup or drink a glass of milk would make me miserable afterward. The pit of my stomach seemed sore as a boil and just burned like coals of fire. It felt like the gas pressure would stop my heart beating, and often I could hardly get my breath.

"I would have deathly sick headaches and dizzy spells, and would have awful pains in the region of my kidneys. My nerves were on edge day and night, I didn't have a particle of strength, and I had paid out hundreds of dollars without finding a bit of relief.

"Well, my husband kept after me to try Karnak till I did just to please him, and five bottles of this medicine has actually made a clean sweep of all my troubles and built me up over 10 pounds in weight. Why, I never felt better in my life than I do now, and there's not enough money to buy the good Karnak has done me. I'll always praise this medicine."

Karnak is sold in Brainerd by all good drug stores, and by leading druggists in every town.

CROPS IN THE RED RIVER VALLEY ARE PROMISING

REPORT BY N. J. HOLMBERG,
STATE COMMISSIONER OF

LATTER HAS JUST RETURNED FROM INSPECTION TRIP IN TERRITORY

St. Paul, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Crops in the Red River Valley district of Minnesota are in a promising condition, according to a report by N. J. Holmberg, state commissioner of agriculture, who has just returned from an inspection tour through the district along the Great Northern right of way.

In some fields wheat will run 25 to 35 bushels to the acre, Holmberg said. There is some black rust, but the grain is sufficiently advanced to discount the harmful effects of this disease.

The fields are not as uniform as usual, he said, but rotation of crops in the last several years has brought about a great improvement.

"Farmers are learning how to handle the now thistle situation," he said, "and can expect continued advancement as a result."

Old Hawaiian Custom of Birth Celebration

In years gone by the Hawaiians, a primitive, nature-loving people, made gods of mountains, trees and stones. The "ali" or chiefs associated the birth of a child with a specific tree. A tamarind or a koa tree was planted at the time a chief's child was born, and grew to maturity with the child. On certain occasions the first fruits of a young tree, coconut palm by preference, were plucked by a son of the "ali."

When an heir was born to the "ali" the ceremonial drum was beaten at the temple and a sacred hula performed. One of these ceremonial drums, taken from a temple on Diamond head, in Honolulu, is of koa wood (mahogany) and nearly four feet high. Its ends are covered with sharkskin and the sides decorated with human teeth.

As the great drum booms out its message that a son has been born to the "ali," the people gather to offer sacrifices and propitiate the gods. A feast is given by the chief and the sacred hula-hula is performed. This sacred hula is more a historic pantomime than a mere dance, and is as different from the hula-hula of today as a symphony orchestra is from a jazz band.

FOG BAFFLES WOMAN CHANNEL SWIMMER

MISS BARRETT EXHAUSTED AFTER 21 HOUR EFFORT

HER ACTUAL TIME IN THE WATER WAS 41 HOURS, 20 MINUTES

ABANDONS SWIM WHEN ONLY 2 MILES FROM FRENCH COAST

Dover, England, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Exhausted after swimming more than 21 hours through the English Channel, Miss Clara Belle Barrett, 31 year old New York swimming instructor, abandoned her swim when two miles from the French coast at Cape Gris Nez at 5:40 this morning. Her actual time in the water was 41 hours and 20 minutes. She covered between 35 and 40 miles, which experts declare a marvelous feat.

The American woman was beaten by fog, against which she had fought for 12 hours. Her time in the water and distance covered indicated, swimmers here believed, that she would have won and been the first woman to swim the channel if it had not been for the handicap of the fog.

The swimmer was nearly hit by a Boulogne-Flestone mail boat about 8 o'clock last night and was badly frightened.

Great difficulty was experienced in keeping the swimmer's escort craft close to her. It was lost in the fog every time that it slowed down. Tides also swept the boat from the swimmer's side from time to time just as Miss Barrett herself was swept off her course by the tide.

Miss Barrett did not collapse when taken from the water, but it required the aid of a friend and one or two seamen to bring the weary woman aboard.

Indications that she was feeling the bad weather came when Dr. Geo. Brewster, a London physician, who set out from a point five miles from Dover at 11 A. M., was forced to give up late in the afternoon. The American woman fought on. A strapping six footer, weighing 185 pounds, she is built to battle with heavy waters and her reserve energy sustained her, long after a less robust woman would have failed.

MOTHER OF CHANNEL SWIMMER IN STATEMENT

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 3.—"I'm so glad she's out of the water. Are you sure she's safe? I know that you will feel badly about losing. I'm so worried, though, that she'll try it again. For that reason we all wanted her to win."

This was the comment made to the United Press by Mrs. Nathan F. Barrett, mother of the channel swimmer, at her home at Pelham Wood when given the news that Miss Clara Belle Barrett had been lifted from the water exhausted.

Yesterday's Hero—Ehmke of the Philadelphia Athletics who allowed the Detroit Tigers only three hits in the first half of a double bill, winning 6 to 0. The Macks also won the second contest 10 to 1.

After winning 11 consecutive games the New York Yankees went down 2 to 1 before the Chicago White Sox.

Bluege's homer in the 9th won for Washington a 14 to 11 victory over St. Louis. The Griffiths were out 16 to 14 by the Browns but turned five of their six passes to runs.

Rain stopped the Boston-Cleveland game in the third inning.

The New York Giants walked away from the St. Louis Cardinals 4 to 2 thanks to Tyson's head. Tyson stopped a fast one from Keen with his noodle, dropping like a stone. He recovered quickly but completely unnerfed Keen who lost the game before being taken out.

The Chicago Cubs finally got back into the first division by walloping the Robins of Brooklyn 5 to 4. Zae Wilson of Chicago hit his 15th homer in the sixth.

The Phillies trimmed the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates 8 to 3, and hit vigorously almost everything the Corsair curvers attempted to put across the plate.

Scoring three runs in the seventh against Kansas City the league leading Louisville Colonels won their fifth consecutive victory yesterday 4 to 2. Kobb pitched good ball for the pace-makers.

Milwaukee with Jonnard in the box had little trouble defeating Indianapolis 2 to 0. Only five hits were made off the tall Brewer pitcher. Manager Lellvelt of the Milwaukee team was injured in batting practice and may be out for several days.

St. Paul took a game from Columbus, 7 to 0, the contest being stopped in the seventh inning because of rain.

Benton of Minneapolis and Clarkson of Toledo pitched up in an old fashioned pitchers' duel with the Mudhens winning 2 to 1.

TEAMS ALL SET FOR PRISON GAME HERE TOMORROW

TRACY WILL OPPOSE "FOUR DEUCES" IN PITCHING BATTLE

JOLIET TEAM HAS MANY STARS, BRAINERD TO STRIVE FOR VICTORY

The Brainerd N. P. baseball team is all set for the invasion of the Joliet, Ill., state prison baseball squad, who come here tomorrow for one of the big games of the year, to start at 5 p. m. The umpire's horn will undoubtedly go off before one of the largest gatherings in the history of the local municipal park, not even to be eclipsed by the St. Louis Browns crowd last fall.

Joliet prison has a well-deserved reputation according to their press committee, and their playing appears to be of the highest kind on tap, but they will need their utmost to overcome the strong aggregation of local talent that will oppose them. Brainerd has been pointing for this game for the last four weeks, the men putting in hard lick of rehearsal to be in the best of shape.

On the mound for Brainerd will be Tracy, wily curve-ball merchant from Pequot, who set the Kansas City All-Nations group on their respective heads about a week ago, winning handily by a 9 to 1 score. Tracy has been getting his arm in shape for the game, and promises the fans a classy exhibition.

Opposed to Tracy will undoubtedly be No. 2222, the unsolvable "four deuces" of the prison team. This college star according to their press committee, has been winning his games with astounding regularity this year, and his duel with Tracy ought to be worth double the price of admission to any dyed-in-the-wool fan, and the full half-dollar's worth to any one, even though he be of less professional knowledge of the game. Smraker, well-known arbiter of these parts, will be on the job as umpire, insuring to all, fans and players, a clean, fast, sportsmanlike contest.

The line-ups of the teams are as follows:

Joliet Prison—5843, lf; 2631, rf; 3236, lb; 4037, cf; 2354, cf; 4295, ss; 3156, 3b; 4632, c; 5122, c; 5473, p; 2655, p; 3640, p; 4172, p; 2222, p.

DIFFICULT TASK TO PICK "ALL" TEAMS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 3.—Brave critics and experts who dare to pick All-American baseball and football teams always earn more criticism than praise. The experts seldom agree among themselves on the selection and the public never approves of any selection.

Even if the selection is fifty per cent right the only consolation is a question: "Well, what of it? I can name a team just as good."

This was impressed upon the writer in London during the test matches between England and Australia in the world's series of cricket.

Cricket in England and Australia is organized very much like baseball in this country. There are numerous county leagues which play through the regular season but there are no particular leagues like the National and American baseball leagues.

The winners of the major league pennants play the world's series to decide the champion team but in England there is no such system. The best players from every team in England are selected to represent England and the same in Australia.

If baseball were an international game and a series of games could be arranged for a real world's championship, it is likely that the winner of a national series between the pennant winners in the two major leagues would be the one selected to represent the United States in the international matches.

It can well be imagined what would result if the national advisory council with some kind of a committee of writers, players and managers should have to pick an All-American team to play.

There never would be any satisfaction and if the American team should happen to lose to Australia, England, France or any other nation, the selecting committee would be held strictly responsible.

With the exception of very few players, no unanimous vote could be taken on the best first baseman in baseball, the best second baseman, the best pitcher and the best catcher.

Even in England, where there is much more of a tendency to respect the judgment of any kind of authority, a lot of criticism was directed at the selection of the committee and the tactics chosen by the management.

The difficulty that would be experienced in picking the best team of ball players in the big leagues is admitted but the enormity of the task can be realized more forcibly by recalling the criticism directed at the tennis and golf associations for their judgment in selecting teams to represent the United States in international competition.

It should be a comparatively simple matter to select the eight or ten best golf players or the five or six best tennis players to represent the United States because form is followed so closely in the two games.

But the committees of the two associations seldom have made a selection that did not draw some criticism.

If the American golf players did not deliver so sensationally this year in England and Scotland there would have been some complaints about the selection but certainly no one can grumble about the personnel of a team that cleaned up everything in sight.

There is no doubt that the men's tennis team sent to Paris and London was not representative of the real strength of the American game but it was not the fault of the tennis association.

Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston, who certainly would have mopped up in Paris and at Wimbledon found excuses that prevented their selection and Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey were the next best.

Richards didn't do so well, because of temperamental reasons, but no one could have any reason for not feeling proud of Kinsey, whose magnificent fighting heart carried him through to the final round at Wimbledon.

SUZANNE LENGLEN SIGNS CONTRACT TO PLAY PRO TENNIS

EXPECTS TO MAKE A 4-MONTHS' TOUR OF THE UNITED STATES

C. C. PYLE, MANAGER OF RED GRANGE, TO BE FRENCH GIRL'S MANAGER

Paris, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Suzanne Lenglen has signed a contract to play professional tennis on a four months' tour of the United States.

C. C. Pyle, manager of Red Grange will be her manager. She also will make a film under this arrangement.

Mlle. Lenglen's tour which will include exhibition matches in which she will appear with a partner, is scheduled to run four months. She is expected to sail for the U. S. Sept. 22 with her mother.

The contract signed by Mlle. Lenglen is reported to have represented an offer of $100,000 for the French star's relinquishment of her amateur status.

H. G. Pyle, brother of the former manager of Red Grange, represented C. C. Pyle in the negotiations with an American attorney, Colonel Hayward.

The agreement was made at Pourville, a French watering place on the English Channel.

Mlle. Lenglen's decision to desert the field of amateur tennis leaves her virtually a champion undefeated for her change of status will stop her from defending her title as unofficial champion.

Pyle made the following statement to the United Press:

"The contract was signed at Pourville last Saturday in the presence of Mlle. Lenglen's parents and my lawyer, Colonel Hayward."

"Mlle. Lenglen will make a film and also will play tennis in exhibition matches of women's and mixed doubles."

"I hope that eventually the international rules will be modified so that professionals can meet amateurs in open competition as is the case in golf."

The promoter added that "no Englishman" would become Mlle. Lenglen's teammate in the proposed "international" exhibition team and inferred that he believed that England has no first class tennis player worthy of partnership with the French woman.

DUCKS BOXING COMMISSIONERS, CHALLENGERS, ETC.

PROCESS SERVERS SIDE-STEPPED AND GENERAL ANNOYANCES

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION OF WORLD RETURNING EAST TODAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 3.—Doing his old time stuff as a warrior on his way to battle instead of a champion, ducking boxing commissioners, challengers, process servers and general annoyances, Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, was returning east today.

Dempsey headed into New York announcing he was going to look around some shopping places for a few days and then start for White Sulphur Springs, where he will begin training for the defense of his title against Gene Tunney, a contest scheduled but not yet licensed for Sept. 16 in the Yankee stadium.

The champion had his usual line. "I'm ready to do the fighting. I'll leave the worrying to someone else," he said.

The "someone" else in other cases was Jack Kearns, his former manager, but in this instance he must have meant that Tex Rickard was the custodian of the well known bag.

Rickard, it seems, has two big fighters signed for fancy prices, a date and a baseball park at his disposition and no license. Rickard, it was understood today, was prepared to ask the boxing commission to charge $50 each for ring side seats. The ruling of the commission now is that not more than $25 can be charged for admission to championship contests, but George Brower, the legal expert of the board, recently said it was only a ruling and could be changed by a majority vote. Rickard has his argument: "If I fill the Yankee stadium at $25 per top, look at the money the state will get in taxes if I am allowed to charge twice as much. Imagine how much more that would be for the state."

Another of the scores of reports heard today was that Rickard had effected a reconciliation between Dempsey and Jack Kearns and had headed off legal action by Kearns, whose contract with Dempsey expires today.

If Kearns could prove that the contract between Dempsey and Rickard had been signed before today he could ask the courts for his cut of the champion's purse.

Dempsey also was notified today that Chicago promoters had applied for an injunction in the federal court in Denver to restrain Dempsey from fighting anyone, anywhere until he had fought Wills in Chicago. If the motion is granted Dempsey would have to appear in Denver on August 17 and if he had to appear at that time the date for the fight here might have to be postponed.

Cape Gris Nez, France, Aug. 3.—Olaf Farstad, a Norwegian policeman, began an attempt to swim the English Channel at 3:30 A. M. today and at midday was eight miles north of the cape.

Before entering the water Erstad said: "I am feeling fine and am going to do it."

The Norwegian professed disdain for tides and similar factors. In preparation for the ordeal, he ate a dozen eggs last night.

FOG BAFFLES WOMAN CHANNEL SWIMMER

MISS BARRETT EXHAUSTED AFTER 21 HOUR EFFORT

HER ACTUAL TIME IN THE WATER WAS 41 HOURS, 20 MINUTES

ABANDONS SWIM WHEN ONLY 2 MILES FROM FRENCH COAST

Dover, England, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Exhausted after swimming more than 21 hours through the English Channel, Miss Clara Belle Barrett, 31 year old New York swimming instructor, abandoned her swim when two miles from the French coast at Cape Gris Nez at 5:40 this morning. Her actual time in the water was 41 hours and 20 minutes. She covered between 25 and 40 miles, which experts declare a marvelous feat.

The American woman was beaten by fog, against which she had fought for 12 hours. Her time in the water and distance covered indicated, swimmers here believed, that she would have won and been the first woman to swim the channel if it had not been for the handicap of the fog.

The swimmer was nearly hit by a Boulogne-Folkestone mail boat about 8 o'clock last night and was badly frightened.

Great difficulty was experienced in keeping the swimmer's escort craft close to her. It was lost in the fog every time that it slowed down. Tides also swept the boat from the swimmer's side from time to time just as Miss Barrett herself was swept off her course by the tide.

Miss Barrett did not collapse when taken from the water, but it required the aid of a friend and one or two seamen to bring the weary woman aboard.

Indications that she was feeling the bad weather came when Dr. Geo. Brewster, a London physician, who set out from a point five miles from Dover at 11 A. M., was forced to give up late in the afternoon. The American woman fought on. A strapping six footer, weighing 185 pounds, she is built to battle with heavy waters and her reserve energy sustained her, long after a less robust woman would have failed.

MOTHER OF CHANNEL SWIMMER IN STATEMENT

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 3.—"I'm so glad she's out of the water. Are you sure she's safe? I know that she will feel badly about losing. I'm so worried, though, that she'll try it again. For that reason we all wanted her to win."

This was the comment made to the United Press by Mrs. Nathan F. Barrett, mother of the channel swimmer, at her home at Pelham Wood when given the news that Miss Clara Belle Barrett had been lifted from the water exhausted.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Ehmke of the Philadelphia Athletics who allowed the Detroit Tigers only three hits in the first half of a double bill, winning 6 to 0. The Macks also won the second contest 10 to 1.

After winning 11 consecutive games the New York Yankees went down 2 to 1 before the Chicago White Sox.

Bluege's homer in the 9th won for Washington a 14 to 11 victory over St. Louis. The Griffiths were out-hit 16 to 14 by the Browns but turned five of their six passes to runs.

Rain stopped the Boston-Cleveland game in the third inning.

The New York Giants walked away from the St. Louis Cardinals 4 to 2 thanks to Tyson's head. Tyson stopped a fast one from Keen with his noddle, dropping like a stone. He recovered quickly but completely unnerved Keen who lost the game before being taken out.

The Chicago Cubs finally got back into the first division by walloping the Robins of Brooklyn 5 to 4. Zae Wilson of Chicago hit his 15th homer in the sixth.

The Phillies trimmed the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 3, and hit vigorously almost everything the Corsair curvers attempted to put across the plate.

Scoring three runs in the seventh against Kansas City the league leading Louisville Colonels won their fifth consecutive victory yesterday 4 to 2. Kobb pitched good ball for the pace-makers.

Milwaukee with Jonnard in the box had little trouble defeating Indianapolis 2 to 0. Only five hits were made off the tall Brewer pitcher. Manager Lellivelt of the Milwaukee team was injured in batting practice and may be out for several days.

St. Paul took a game from Columbus, 7 to 0, the contest being stopped in the seventh inning because of rain.

Benton of Minneapolis and Clarkson of Toledo hitched up in an old fashioned pitchers' duel with the Mudhens winning 2 to 1.

Give Townpeople of Little Falls a Thrill With Their Automobile Act

BUT LEARNED A LESSON

Joseph Schelorn and James Bosely Fined $75 and Costs for Having Liquor

Two Brainerd youths, Joseph Schelorn, 21 years old and James Bosely, 18 years old, both employees of the N. P. railway here caused quite a bit of furore for the town of Little Falls Saturday when they pulled a little daredevil automobile maneuvering for the benefit of the townpeople and the police. It is reported in the Little Falls Transcript.

The two accompanied by two girls also said to be from Brainerd, were engaged in roaring through the business section of Little Falls in their speedy roadster when they struck the police car, climbed a curb, and finally came to a stop in front of a shed 25 feet away from the river's edge.

Police found one gallon of moonshine whiskey in the car but evidently one of the riders had partaken of it. The girls were released and returned to Brainerd on a bus while the boys were held till they paid the fine of $75 and costs. The fine has been paid. The only damage done was that to the fender on the police car which the boys will have to pay, the Transcript said.

FURTHER ECHOES OF KIDNAPING CASE

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 3.—(UP)—The Los Angeles county jury will be called upon today to decide whether the Mrs. George McIntire of Carmel by the Sea was a nurse, designated for convenience as "Miss X" or Almee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist, who was "kidnaped" immediately before the date of the Carmel episode.

Thrusting upon the inquisitorial body the burden of deciding whether to go further in the investigation of Mrs. McPherson's "kidnaping" the district attorney's office will present today a mass of evidence of a nature basically conflicting. Included will be the affidavit of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple in which he admits he was George McIntire, but denies that Mrs. McIntire was Mrs. McPherson. The woman who accompanied him to Carmel was a nurse, unnamed except as "Miss X", according to the statement.

LEGION PICNIC PLEASED MANY

Held Last Evening at Lum Park for Legion and Ladies Auxiliary Members

MAYOR LITTLE SPOKE

Kitchen Police Defeated the Dog Robbers at Kittenball by 18 to 10 Score

The American Legion and Auxiliary picnic held last night at Lum park was staged under ideal weather conditions with everyone enjoying themselves to the utmost. More than 150 were in attendance.

The diving contest was won by George Sweet with Ad Mraz, second. A short business meeting was held which was followed by a short address by Mayor F. E. Little. Mayor Little said in part: "I believe the American Legion is one of the greatest factors for good in the United States today, composed as it is of men of all classes and creed who realize after their service in the late war that they still have a duty to perform. They have banded themselves together into a group to carry on the work of the teaching of patriotism, law observance and all things of good government."

The most interesting part of the picnic was the Kittenball game played between the Kitchen Police and the Dog Robbers, which the Kitchen Police won by the score of 18 to 10. It was a game full of exciting hitting, good base stealing and spectacular fielding. Bert Orne, Kirk Smith, Art Lyndon, and Sweet were the home run hitters of the evening.

The teams lined up as follows:

Kitchen Police: Roth, c; Fransor, p; Milliner, ss; B. Anderson, 1b; Lyndon, 2b; Parker, 3b; Orne, Lind, and Englund, fielders; utility, Benson.

Dog Robbers: Aiton, c; Hall, p; Brodenberg, 1b; Elcock, 2b; Jepson, ss; Shield, 3b; Smith, Mitchell, Mraz, fielders; Swat, utility.

BRAINERD YOUTHS STAGE OWN FUN

Give Townpeople of Little Falls a Thrill With Their Automobile Act

BUT LEARNED A LESSON

Joseph Schelorn and James Bosely Fined $75 and Costs for Having Liquor

Two Brainerd youths, Joseph Schelorn, 21 years old and James Bosely, 18 years old, both employees of the N. P. railway here caused quite a bit of furor for the town of Little Falls Saturday when they pulled a little daredevil automobile maneuvering for the benefit of the townpeople and the police. It is reported in the Little Falls Transcript. The two accompanied by two girls also said to be from Brainerd, were engaged in roaring through the business section of Little Falls in their speedy roadster when they struck the police car, climbed a curb, and finally came to a stop in front of a shed 25 feet away from the river's edge.

Police found one gallon of moonshine whiskey in the car but evidently one of the riders had partaken of it. The girls were released and returned to Brainerd on a bus while the boys were held till they paid the fine of $75 and costs. The fine has been paid. The only damage done was that to the fender on the police car which the boys will have to pay, the Transcript said.

FURTHER ECHOES OF KIDNAPING CASE

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 3.—(UP)—The Los Angeles county jury will be called upon today to decide whether the Mrs. George McIntire of Carmel by the Sea was a nurse, designated for convenience as "Miss X" or Almee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist, who was "kidnaped" immediately before the date of the Carmel episode.

Thrusting upon the inquisitorial body the burden of deciding whether to go further in the investigation of Mrs. McPherson's "kidnaping" the district attorney's office will present today a mass of evidence of a nature basically conflicting. Included will be the affidavit of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple in which he admits he was George McIntire, but denies that Mrs. McIntire was Mrs. McPherson. The woman who accompanied him to Carmel was a nurse, unnamed except as "Miss X", according to the statement.

THOMAS CACHRAN SAID SOMETHING

New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Thomas Cochran's remarkable statement to Dow Jones & Co., continued the principal topic of interest in Wall street today. This was the first time in the memory of the financial community's oldest operators that a Morgan partner had gone on record as predicting higher prices for a stock sponsored by the firm and this amazing departure stirred up speculative enthusiasm to an extraordinary degree.

Brokers, who had been complaining about the absence of public participation had no more murmurs to make on that score for the optimism exhibited by Cochran regarding the business and financial situation brought a flood of buying orders from widespread interior points. This demand naturally converged on General Motors, for which the Morgan associate had predicted considerable higher prices. As a result this stock scored another sensational advance reaching a level more than 10 points above the previous close before its rise was arrested by profit taking.

U. S. Steel also marched aggressively into record territory selling substantially above any price previously attained while other high grade industrialists like Allied Chemical and Texas Gulf Sulphur also achieved unprecedented prices. Buying activities spread all through the list as the day wore on and the afternoon dealings were distinguished by brisk operations for the rise in many departments which proceeded in the face of irregularity created by varying sales in some of the industrial leaders.

The market closed higher.

EFFORTS FRUITLESS TRYING TO TRACE RADIO OPERATOR

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Efforts to trace Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator at the Angelus temple, Los Angeles, today, were unavailing.

Ormiston, who made an affidavit here saying that he with a mysterious "Miss X" was at a cottage near Carmel, Cal., shortly after the disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson, left no word where he was going from Chicago.

The affidavit, which absolutely absolved the evangelist from any connection from any visit to the Carmel cottage, was made in the office of Edward H. Martin, lawyer.

"Ormiston came into the office last week and made the affidavit before my son," Martin said today. "Immediately after signing the paper, he paid the fee and left. He gave no address and that one document ended our connection with the case."

The younger Martin is now on a vacation, but the elder Martin stated neither knew much about the case. In the affidavit Ormiston said he went to Carmel May 21 with "Miss X," a nurse, and remained there until May 28. Then, fearing vacation, but the elder Martin stat-caused inasmuch as his name already had been mentioned in the McPherson case, the two left and returned to San Francisco.
